Returning after a long break. Start with an example the learner remembers feeling comfortable with. Let the tutor listen before deciding how much earlier material to revisit. Compare confidence with what the learner can demonstrate on a fresh example. Use both observations when setting the next goal.

Following Arabic print. Use a blank strip of paper just below the line quran tutors uk online so the text remains visible. Let the teacher model the direction of travel, then let the learner move the strip. Watch where the learner's eyes return after a pause. If they restart on another line, shorten the passage and try again.

Ask the learner which of the two activities felt easier and why. Refer to the example they actually tried when agreeing online Quran tuition UK on a home-practice task.