On the eastern side of the city, Llanrumney and St Mellons sit just a short drive from Redland Roofing Cardiff's base on Trecinon Road in Rumney. That closeness counts for a lot when the weather turns. The business is an independent, family-run roofing company from South Wales and has served Cardiff and South East Wales for over 30 years, with Llanrumney and St Mellons firmly within its home patch. Much of Llanrumney is post-war housing, and many of those roofs have been through decades of Welsh weather. Wet winters, Atlantic winds, driving rain and freeze-thaw cycles all take their toll, loosening tiles, cracking flashing and wearing out lead work. St Mellons has a mix of homes, and across both districts flat-roofed rear extensions, dormers and garages are common, often with felt coverings that last around 10 to 15 years. Reliable roofers Cardiff households can turn to will look at the whole picture and explain what needs doing now and what can wait. Common leak causes such as damaged tiles, blocked gutters, worn valleys and cracked flat roof surfaces are all routine work for the team, whether the property is in Llanrumney or St Mellons. The process is simple and transparent. The roof is assessed, the problem is explained clearly, and photos show what is going on. A free, no-obligation written quote follows, with no hidden costs and honest advice. Where a repair will solve the issue, a replacement will not be recommended. Where a full replacement is needed on a standard Cardiff terrace or semi, it typically takes 2 to 4 days, weather permitting, with the roof left watertight at the end of every working day. Homes in Llanrumney, St Mellons, Trowbridge and Old St Mellons all get the same careful approach.
