Drug Rehabs Near Me San Diego Outpatient vs Residential HGR When San Diego residents search for drug rehabs near me, one of the earliest decisions they face is whether outpatient or residential treatment is the appropriate starting point. HGR Drug Rehabs San Diego California provides both, and the clinical team's assessment process is designed to help each client and family understand clearly which level of care is indicated for their specific situation, based on clinical criteria rather than convenience or cost alone. The American Society of Addiction Medicine (ASAM) Criteria provide the standard framework for addiction treatment placement decisions in California, and the clinical assessors at HGR use these criteria to evaluate each client across six dimensions: withdrawal risk, biomedical conditions, emotional and behavioral conditions, readiness to change, relapse potential, and recovery environment. The results of this assessment determine the appropriate starting level of care. For San Diego residents whose assessment indicates residential treatment is clinically necessary, the HGR residential program provides intensive clinical programming in a safe, supportive environment. For those whose situation is more appropriate for intensive outpatient, the IOP format provides meaningful clinical engagement while preserving daily life continuity. Both options are available within the HGR continuum, with seamless transitions between levels as clinical progress warrants.
