

Bedding takes up a surprising amount of room in a moving truck if packed without a plan. Manifest Moving Columbus has developed practical methods for packing pillows, comforters, and sheets that save space while keeping everything clean and protected during transport.

Use Vacuum-Sealed Bags for Bulky Items

Comforters and pillows compress significantly when placed in vacuum-sealed bags, reducing their volume by a large margin compared to packing them loosely in a box. Manifest Moving Company often recommends this method for customers <https://www.bbb.org/us/oh/middletown/profile/moving-and-storage-companies/manifest-moving-0292-90025412> looking to maximize truck space without sacrificing protection for these items.

Vacuum bags also help keep bedding clean and free of dust during the time between packing and unpacking, which can span several days for longer moves.

Layer Bedding Inside Larger Boxes

Rather than dedicating entire boxes to bedding alone, sheets and lighter blankets can be layered around more fragile items to provide cushioning while also saving separate box space. Columbus OH Movers sometimes use this dual-purpose packing method for customers looking to reduce the total number of boxes needed for a move.

This approach works especially well for pillowcases and thin blankets, which pack easily into gaps around dishes, lamps, or other irregularly shaped items.

Use Wardrobe Boxes for Hanging Comforters

Larger comforters and duvets can be hung inside wardrobe boxes alongside clothing, which keeps them from taking up separate floor space in the truck. A Moving Company in Columbus OH familiar with this technique uses wardrobe boxes efficiently by combining multiple item types within the same container.

Crews trained in these methods can pack an entire linen closet efficiently in far less time than most customers would spend doing it themselves.

Label by Room and Bed Size

Labeling bedding boxes by which bedroom and bed size they belong to speeds up unpacking significantly. Manifest Movers in Columbus OH recommend this simple step so bedding can be placed on the correct beds immediately upon arrival rather than sorted through later.

Keep Pillows Compressed but Accessible

Pillows packed too tightly for too manifest movers in columbus oh long can lose some of their loft, so vacuum sealing works best when the move happens within a reasonable timeframe. For longer storage periods, breathable bags may be a better choice to preserve pillow shape and comfort.
